Colonial Luxury

The house is kept in good condition and has been renovated respecting its history and character. The 60 cm thick masonry walls give it a rustic appeal, while the wooden beamed ceiling and Catalan vault evoke the time when it was built. The newest section of the house features a concrete roof. As for the interior finishes, the hand-painted pasta mosaic floors stand out, giving a personalized and unique touch to each room.

Overlooking the famous San Francisquito Church and with a balcony of Calle 59, this property offers an unparalleled view and location. The potential commercial uses are diverse, from restaurants to boutiques, making this property an extremely versatile investment.
